David S. Steingard, Ph.D.
Assistant Director
Pedro Arrupe Center for Business Ethics

David S. Steingard, Ph.D., is the assistant director of the Pedro Arrupe Center for Business Ethics and assistant professor of management at Saint Joseph's University. A faculty member in the Haub School of Business since 1999, Dr. Steingard includes leadership, ethics, socially responsible business, diversity, and spirituality in business among his teaching and research interests. He has been quoted by both print and electronic media outlets.

To Dr. Steingard, "Business ethics is as much of a learnable skill as any other area of business, such as marketing or management. There is a body of theoretical knowledge and practical decision-making models and tools that actually evaluate moral criteria."

To that end, Dr. Steingard is working on creating new programs to further existing efforts to incorporate ethics teaching in classrooms and faculty members' research agendas.

Dr. Steingard earned his doctorate in management from Case Western University.
